If the documents which are incorporated by reference in the Base Prospectus by virtue of this Supplement themselves incorporate any information or other documents therein, such information or other documents will not form part of the Base Prospectus.

(ii) Litigation

The following wording shall replace the fourth, fifth and sixth paragraph in the section entitled “Description of the Issuer - Litigation” starting on page 146 of the Base Prospectus:

“In January 2022, an individual commenced litigation against the Issuer claiming that a provision in a mortgage credit agreement issued in 2006 be deemed illegal and void as it allegedly does not specify under which conditions changes are made to the interest rate, as provided for in the Consumer Credit Act No. 121/1994, applicable at the time. The plaintiff demands, furthermore, an acknowledgement by the Court that interests be recalculated in accordance with Article 4 of the Act on Interest and Indexation and that the debt remaining in November 2020 amounted to an overpayment of around ISK 26.5 million. Alternatively, the plaintiff demanded an acknowledgement that interests be recalculated in accordance with the initial interest rate of the credit agreement and that the debt remaining in November 2020 amounted to an overpayment of around ISK 2 million. The Issuer delivered its written statement in April 2022 claiming dismissal of certain aspects of the plaintiff’s claims and rejection of other claims, alternatively all claims. On 21 November 2022, the District Court dismissed the case. In December 2022, the case was again brought before the District Court. The timing of a final judgment is uncertain, whether it will have a financial impact on the Issuer and what its legal precedent will be.

In December 2021, two individuals commenced litigation against the Issuer claiming that an interest rate provision in two credit agreements, issued in 2006, should be deemed illegal and void since the provision allegedly does not stipulate under which circumstances the interest rate changes, as provided for in the Consumer Credit Act No. 121/1994, applicable at the time. The plaintiffs demand that interests be recalculated in accordance with Article 4 of the Act on Interest and Indexation, and that the Issuer repays the plaintiffs around ISK 3.5 million plus interest. As a last resort, the plaintiffs demand that interests be recalculated in accordance with the initial contractual interest rate. In February 2022, the Issuer submitted its written statement claiming that all claims by the plaintiffs should be rejected. The case was heard by the District Court on 17 January 2023. On 7 February 2023 the District Court delivered its judgment, recognising the individuals' last resort claim of payment of around ISK 230,000 plus interest. It is expected that the judgment will be appealed to the Appeal Court. A final judgment may set a precedent for other consumer credit agreements containing the same contractual provision. It is the Issuer's current preliminary assessment that an adverse outcome of a final judgment could have a financial impact on the Issuer in the amount of less than ISK 200 million.

In December 2021, two individuals commenced litigation against the Issuer claiming that an interest rate provision in a mortgage credit agreement, issued in 2019, should be deemed illegal and void since the provision allegedly does not stipulate conditions and procedure for interest rate changes, as provided for in the Consumer Mortgage Act No. 118/2016. The plaintiffs demand that interests be recalculated in accordance with Article 4 of the Act on Interest and Indexation, and that the repays the plaintiffs around ISK 83,000 plus interest. In February 2022 the Issuer submitted its written statement claiming that all claims by the plaintiffs should be rejected. In March 2022 the plaintiffs submitted a claim that an advisory opinion by the EFTA Court should be requested on the interpretation of certain provisions in directives incorporated into the EEA Agreement. On 23 June 2022, the District Court rejected the request of the plaintiffs. In the case, however, the Court decided on own initiative to request an advisory opinion from the EFTA Court on certain issues. On 31 October 2022, the Appeal Court confirmed the decision of the District Court. The timing of a final judgment is uncertain, whether it will have a financial impact on the Issuer and what its legal precedent will be.

One possible unfavourable outcome of the above-mentioned cases concerning consumer and mortgage credit agreements could be that the credit agreements concerned should bear the initial fixed rate of interest set out in the contracts instead of a variable interest rate. This outcome, which the Issuer believes is unlikely, would significantly raise the Issuer's interest rate risk which could lead to a significant financial loss in the event of adverse developments of interest rates in the capital markets."

(iii) No significant change and no material adverse change

The following wording shall replace the paragraph in the section entitled "General Information – Significant or Material Change" on page 167 of the Base Prospectus:

"There has been no significant change in the financial position or financial performance of the Group since 31 December 2022, and there has been no material adverse change in the prospects of the Issuer since 31 December 2022".

(iv) Litigation statement

The following wording shall replace the paragraph in the section entitled "General Information – Litigation" on page 167 of the Base Prospectus:

"Except as disclosed in the section entitled "Description of the Bank – Litigation" starting on page 146 of this Base Prospectus, and updated in "Note 38 - Litigation" on pages 42 - 43 of the 2022 Financial Statements, neither the Bank nor any other member of the Group is or has been involved in any governmental, legal or arbitration proceedings (including any such proceedings which are pending or threatened of which the Issuer is aware) in the 12 months preceding the date of this document which may have or have in such period had significant effect on the financial position or profitability of the Bank or the Group.”
